3. How We Collect Personal Information

- Information You Provide to Us. We collect Personal Information you provide directly to us via the Services. For example, Personal Information is collected when you use or register for the Services, subscribe to our notifications, post on the Services, participate in promotional activities, apply for a job, communicate with us through the Services, or use an application. De-Identified Data Personal Information once “de-identified” may not be subject to this Privacy Notice and we and our Service Providers (defined below) may treat it as Non-Personal Information and use it without obligation to you except as prohibited by applicable law.

- Information We Collect Automatically from Your Use of the Services. We and our Service Providers collect information about the Services that you use and how you use them. This information includes IP Address, device type, Ad ID, and information about your use of the services (“Usage Information”). This information is collected in part through the use of cookies. To the extent that Usage Information is Personal Information under applicable law, or is combined with Personal Information, we will treat it as Personal Information under this Privacy Notice.

- Information Collected from Other Sources. We also receive Personal Information from other sources, such as public databases, fraud prevention agencies, credit reference agencies, lenders, joint marketing partners, and social media platforms, and combine that with information we collect about you. To the extent we combine such third party-sourced information with Personal Information we collect directly from you, we will treat the combined information as Personal Information. We are not responsible for the accuracy of the information obtained from third parties or third-party practices.
• Cookies. Cookies are unique identifiers that we transfer to your device to enable our systems to recognize your device and provide personalization. The “Help” feature on most browsers will tell you how to prevent your browser from accepting new cookies, how to have your browser notify you when you receive a new cookie, and how to disable cookies. You can also disable or delete similar data used by browser add-ons, such as Flash cookies, by changing the add-ons settings or viewing the website of its manufacturer. In order to ensure the full functionality and optimization of the Services, we recommend that you leave cookies turned on. The four main types of cookie that we use through the Services:

- Strictly Necessary Cookies – These cookies are essential—without them, you might not be able to get the information or services you have asked for. They are needed for things like logging whether you see error messages – so we can make improvements and fix bugs – as well as allowing you to make a purchase.

- Personalization and Testing Cookies – These cookies remember choices you have made to personalize the Services or are used by us to test the content and functionality of the Services with different groups of visitors. They remember where you are in the site so that you can get tailored information, or changes you have made to help you browse, such as increasing the text size.

- Analytics and Measurement Cookies – We use several technologies to understand how visitors use the Services. These help us to identify areas for improvement, and to collect and report on commercial data (like sales volumes). They include analytics tools that report numbers, and session capture tools that record videos of individual user sessions – following things like where you click on the page, place your cursor, and where you fill in forms. This data is kept secure and we record only what is typed into forms, if necessary. The rest of the time it is not visible in the recording. Other reporting tools we use support our efforts to prevent fraud and the abuse of the Services; these also employ cookies.

- Targeting or Advertising Cookies – These cookies collect information about your browsing habits (including details of the websites you have visited), which we use to make sure you receive advertising relevant to you. We (or third parties and advertising networks on our behalf) use them to show you ads we think you will be interested in across the Internet (including on other sites you visit), based on your interaction with our website, app and your browsing history. This includes advertising that uses Online Behavioral Advertising. Third parties, such as advertising networks, work with websites and advertisers to deliver customized advertising based on the collection and use of your web browsing activity. This includes pages visited, ads clicked, and products bought or researched. If, for example, you visit our website and show an interest in one of the Services, we re-target you with advertisements about it on other websites – and in search results – for a number of days after your initial visit. If a set period has passed the re-targeting advertising stops.

Your Web browser’s Help Menu can show you how it stores cookies. You can learn more about cookies at https://www.allaboutcookies.org/. Please be aware that some features of the Pax8 website may be impaired if you block all cookies from our website.
